Partner, Co-founder

William A. Warren, CPA, is a co-founder of RWH Myers and partner-in-charge of the firm's Atlanta office. He provides expert services in the analysis and presentation of business interruption, extra expense and property damage claims, as well as the quantification and reporting of complex business interruption values and exposures. Mr. Warren also helps clients measure damages related to builders risk claims, OCIP claims, patent infringements, employee fidelity, third-party liability and other commercial disputes. He also provides expert services for matters in appraisal, mediation, arbitration and litigation.

Mr. Warren has represented major public and private for-profit, not-for-profit, and public entities throughout North America, South America and Europe. He works with clients from a broad range of industries, including chemical, distribution, food services, forest products, financial and professional services, healthcare, manufacturing, mining, technology and communications, real estate, and retail.

Experience

Mr. Warren assists clients with individual losses as well as managing many losses during regional catastrophic ("CAT") events, including the September 11th terrorist attacks; the severe hurricane seasons of 1998, 2004, 2005 and Superstorm Sandy; Mississippi River flooding; contingent losses stemming from Thailand flooding, and freeze losses during the winter of 2013/2014.
