

Sharon Pisko Wolfe, CPA

Partner, Co-founder

Sharon Pisko Wolfe, CPA, co-founded RWH Myers in 2008 and is currently a partner in the firm's Connecticut office, specializing in complex business interruption and extra expense loss calculations for large multinational corporate policyholders.

Experience

During almost two decades in forensic accounting, Sharon Pisko Wolfe has calculated more than four hundred property and liability claims, with values well in excess of $2 billion. She has provided investigative accounting services for litigation and ADR matters throughout the United States, Canada, Mexico, and Europe, and is a frequent speaker on business interruption and property claims to colleagues and members of the insurance community. She also contributed to the definitive CPCU textbook "Commercial Property Risk Management and Insurance", which is distributed worldwide.

Ms. Wolfe's extensive experience with property claims ranges across a wide array of industries, including airline transportation, pulp and paper, heavy manufacturing, public utility, petrochemical, oil and gas, mining, telecommunications, financial services, hospitality, wholesale, distribution and retail, healthcare, and technology.
